

GERMAN WARFARE ON SEA ONE OF
TOTAL DESPAIRAdmiral Sir John Jellicoe Pays
High Tribute to Courage
Shown by British Merchant
Crews.(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
London, Aug. 3.—Germany's present method of sea warfare is one of absolute despair, declared Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, first sea lord of the British admiralty, in a public address the other day. "The navy, assisted by the other allies, is doing its best and right well is the American navy helping us," he continued. "Even the admiralty is doing its best, assisted by a good deal of criticism."

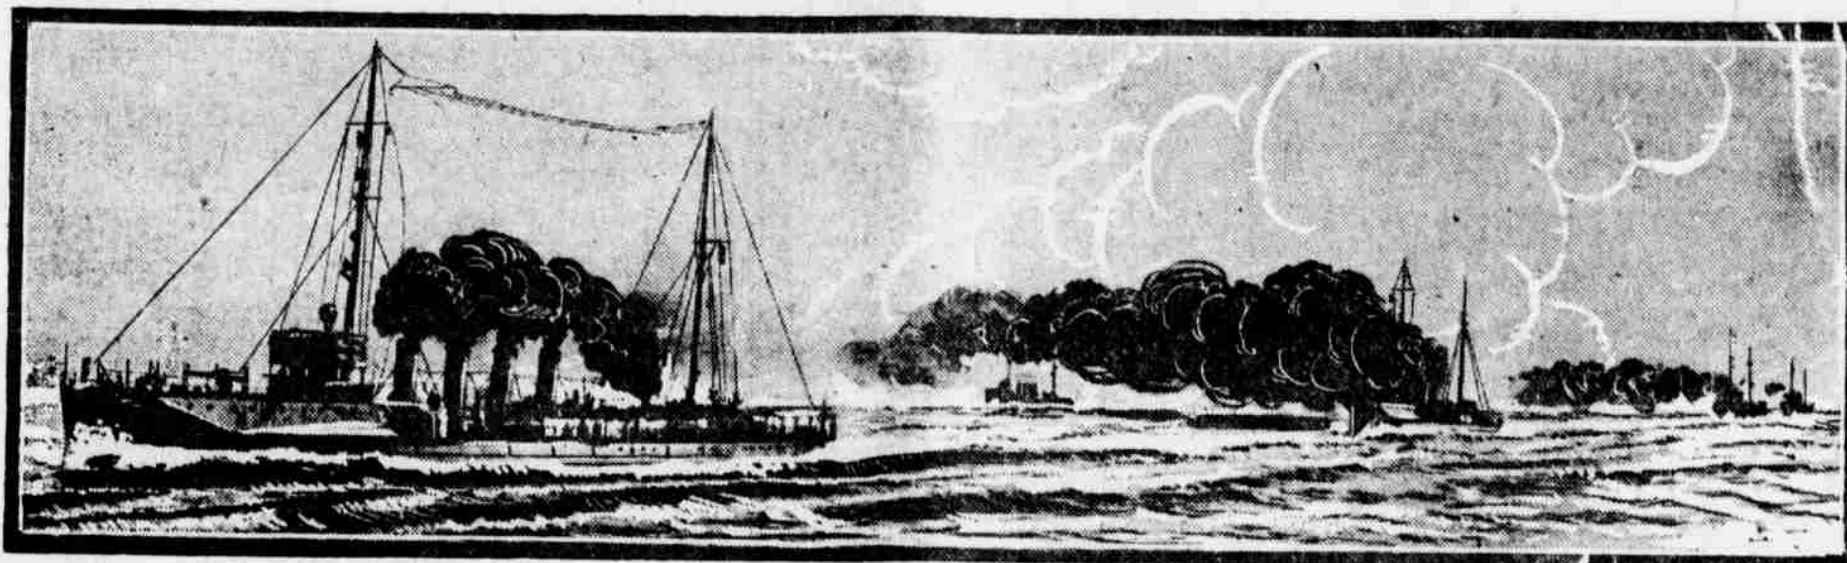

Admiral Jellicoe was speaking at a meeting held to inaugurate a movement to establish a fund for sailors to be called "King George's Fund for Sailors," under the presidency of Acting Lieutenant Prince George. Paying a warm tribute to the British merchant marine, the admiral said the sailor never knew a moment when the ship might not be sunk under him and he very seldom saw the enemy which sank him. At the best, he took to the boats often 100 to 200 miles from shore and often underwent terrible experiences because the enemy shelled the boats frequently after the men got into them. The only effect of that treatment on the British sailor was to make him keen to get back to sea again to have a chance of getting his own back again.

Sir John gave some instances of the spirit which he said animated the sailors of the mercantile marine. Among them were the following:

The Anglo-Californian was attacked and shelled for 2½ hours by a submarine. After the attack had lasted 1½ hours and the ship had been hit frequently, the captain decided that any attempt to save his vessel was hopeless. As she was being abandoned he was intercepted by a wireless message from a destroyer ordering him to hold on as long as possible. The captain and ships company promptly went back to their vessel. The submarine continued to shell the ship, the master and eight hands were killed and seven of the crew were wounded, but the ship returned to port.

The steamer Palm Branch was attacked by a submarine and hit in several places, and two members of the crew were injured. A young apprentice who was wounded remained at the wheel throughout the attack and refused to leave his post, and the vessel was brought in in safety. She was later armed with a gun and sank one of two submarines which attacked her.

In the Adriatic recently three Austrian cruisers came up to one of the drifters named Gowanlee, and summoned her to surrender. The captain, with a six-pounder gun, engaged the cruisers and brought his ship away in safety. One of the back hands had his leg shattered but continued to work and fire his gun throughout the action.

HOLLAND HAS LITTLE
FEAR OF JAP GREED(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Tokio, Aug. 3.—"It is not because of fear of Japan or any other particular nation that the Dutch government recently voted to increase its naval forces for the protection of Holland's possessions in the orient," was the statement attributed to J. B. Hubrecht, newly arrived secretary of the Holland legation, in an interview published here.

"I can assure you," continued Mr. Hubrecht, "that the popular sentiment of my country toward Japan is genuinely friendly, and the desire is strong to see the economic and commercial relationship between Japan and the Dutch East Indies become tighter. The open door is the only policy of Holland in developing those possessions and Japanese capital is welcomed just as equally as French, British, American, or any other."

He concluded: "With the tremendous commercial interests and the enormous amount of capital invested not only by Holland, but by other countries as well, those islands call for sufficient protection. The present war has taught a lesson that even a small country needs to show that it is prepared." Holland feels that she is bound by the universal code of ethics and political honor to do all she can to safeguard the interests of those possessions which are of great worth to all the countries of the world, and to help the Japanese to develop into a strong and capable people."

CIVILIAN NOW WAR
MINISTER OF HOLLAND(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 3.—For the first time in its history the Netherlands has a civilian war minister in Bernard C. de Jonge and many of its old military men are shaking their heads and prophesying little of this startling innovation.

Maj. Gen. N. Bosboom had been minister of war for nearly four years, since August, 1913, his period of office thus covering the entire period of the war and of Holland's mobilization. His administration, in the last critical three years, is generally acknowledged to have in many respects merited the appreciation of his countrymen.

It was General Bosboom who was responsible for the rapid mobilization at the outbreak of European hostilities which, maybe, preserved Holland from the flood of war. Under his direction the number of trained men has been increased from between 200,000 and 400,000 to over 500,000.

TREFZ APPROVES
DISPLAY OF CARDS
BY BUSINESS MENSuggestion That Members of Chamber of Commerce Be Given Preference in Trading
Good One, He Says.

Interviewed concerning the cards that are appearing as if by magic in all parts of the city bearing the legend "Member Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce," Edward F. Trefz, who is national field secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has visited most of the towns and cities of the country said: "The suggestion that the people of Albuquerque who can not belong to the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce give their trade, support and patronage to those who are members is a good one as proved by the experience of other cities and towns."

"In 1905 the Chicago Association of Commerce incorporated a resolution in its by-laws that, all things being equal, the members of the organization should patronize each other. That idea has spread over the country until today there is scarcely an organization that is not following a similar policy. Then the idea went further. The work of these organizations impressed the civic consciousness of their several committees, until in many places today the people at large are preferably giving their support to the members of their central organizations."

"Help Man Who Helps Town"
"This is just and equitable. The man who is in business to get all he can out of the community without a return of service can hardly be held up as a shining light of civic patriotism. Contrariwise, the man who is giving his time and his money to make his community more prosperous and more beautiful deserves the consideration of his fellows. There are some small places of business that cannot afford membership, but a business must be very small not to be able to spend a few cents a day for making the town grow in population and prosperity. It is likely that businesses of such size will make the great effort to catch up with the procession. "It is a good policy to help the man who is helping the town and thus help yourself to help the town."BERNALILLO COUNTY GIVES
ASSISTANCE TO 255 FARMERS

With Appropriation From State Council of Defense, Farm Extension Company Aids More Ranchers Than Do Other Counties.

Word received by County Agent H. C. Stewart from the secretary of the state council of defense yesterday showed that Bernalillo county had aided more farmers through the county's assistance than had any other county. Figures showed that with the $4,000 granted to the Farm Extension company for Bernalillo county, 139 farmers had been aided in the production of crops in the vicinity of Albuquerque.

The Farm Extension company distributed seed to ninety-seven more farmers than did Union county, the second highest, which supplied ninety-three. Sandoval county was third with ninety-one.

Outside of this record, the Farm Extension company aided sixty-five other farmers on its own initiative, making a total of 255.

"This does not mean," said County Agent Stewart yesterday, "that there are more farmers in Bernalillo county than in other counties, but it shows that we got to them."

The company is now preparing to take a crop survey of the entire county Agent Stewart yesterday. "That give figures on the amount of land he has under cultivation, the yield, the number of trees planted, the amount of land for sale and other estimates regarding his farm. In this way the company expects to gather records which will lead to better farming results."

I. W. W. AGITATOR
RESISTS ARREST;
BADLY WOUNDEDGustav W. Longfars Is Taken
Into Custody by National Guard After He Had Cursed
American Flag.(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Salt Lake City, Aug. 3.—With a deep bayonet wound in his back, received when he resisted national guardsmen who arrested him, Gustaf I. W. Longfars, an admitted Industrial Worker of the World, is in the Salt Lake county jail. His arrest was effected at Bingham after, it is alleged, he had cursed the government and damned the United States flag.

Today Longfars demanded that he be allowed to send for the secretary of the local organization. Attorney George Cleveland refused, but offered to send for the organization's Salt Lake counsel. Longfars accepted the offer.

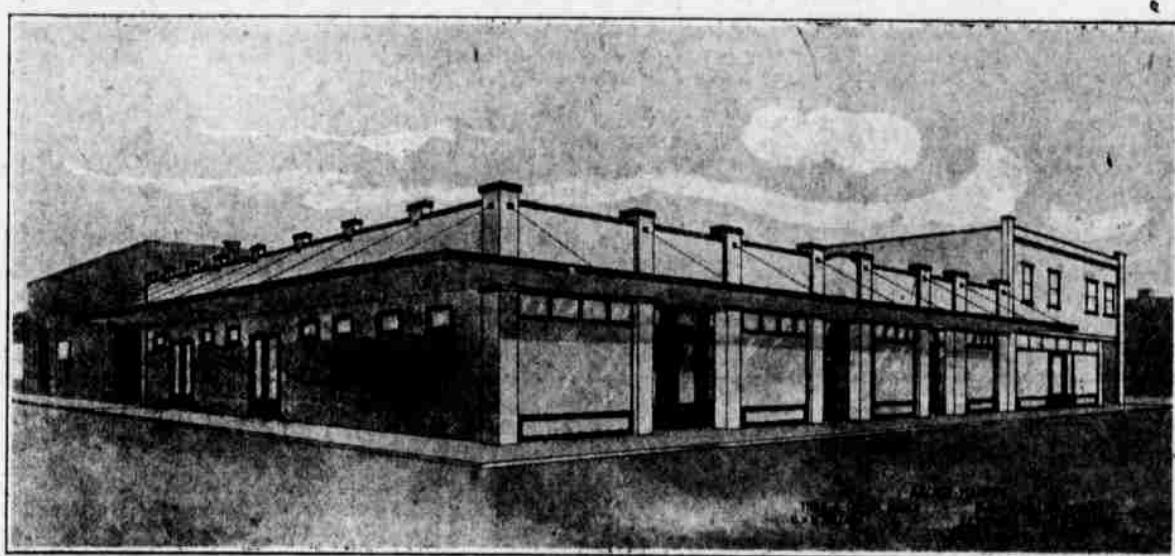

It was Wednesday night at Bingham that Longfars is alleged to have launched his tirade against the government. Members of the Idaho national guard are on duty at Bingham and they took the Longfars' case was referred to Leon Bone, special agent for the department of justice, but it is probable that he will be prosecuted in a state court only. He has demanded a jury trial, which was set for August 8, at Bingham.

Longfars says he is a native of Denmark and has not made any attempt to become naturalized.

Chronic Constipation.

It is by no means an easy matter to cure this disease, but it can be done in most instances by taking Chamberlain's Tablets and complying with the plain printed directions that accompany each package.
